BASIC OVERVIEW OF PROGRAM

The 2009 IRC that takes effect on January 1, 2010, contains approximately 133 changes or modifications to multiple sections of the International Residential Code. Some of these changes are minor and some are major in nature. Let us help you better prepare for these changes so that the transition between the 2006 IRC and the 2009 IRC will be effortless. Increase your knowledge of these new requirements and get a better understanding of why some of these code provisions have been put into effect.

Updates Include:

- Habitable attics/Vertical Egress
- SIPS Construction
- Automatic Fire Sprinkler Systems
- Carbon Monoxide Detectors
- New Deck Construction Requirements
- User Friendly Wall Bracing
- Unvented Attic Assemblies
- New Energy Requirements
- New HVAC/Duct System Requirements
- New Exhaust System Requirements
- New Plumbing Requirements
- Arc Fault & Tamperproof outlets
-and much more!!

Let's bridge the gap between Building Code Officials that enforce the code and those in the construction industry who have to adhere to these laws, by better understanding what is required before a project is designed or estimated and not after; which can place unnecessary economic strain on your projects.
